Really Learn English!

An adjectival clause adds more information about a noun by using a clause with a relative pronoun, such as 'who', 'whom', 'which', 'that' or 'whose'. The adjectival clause follows the noun.
Wow! That sounds tricky, but it is quite easy really!

Example:

The boy who was sitting in the park had just lost his football.

The words underlined are the adjectival clause. Notice that without this clause the sentence would still make sense: The boy had just lost his football.

Underline the adjectival clauses in the following sentences:

1. The mouse that Tim saw yesterday has now been caught by the cat.
2. Harry loves cars which have an automatic gearbox.
3. The old lady who lives next door used to be a ballerina.
4. Mrs Smith is a maths teacher who also teaches PE.
5. The storm, which was accompanied by lightning, lasted over an hour.

Complete the sentence with an adjectival clause of your own.

6. Sam, who....., was going to win the race.
7. The old man who had forgotten his walking stick.
8. I enjoyed the film which
9. Harry tried on the jacket that
10. My sister, whois visiting us next week.
